Professional Certificate in Strategic Water Planning

CMI
Chartered
Management
Institute

What is it?

This is a specialist training course leading to a Level 7 CMI Certificate in Management and Leadership. Upon completion of this week-long course and subsequent written tasks, the successful candidate will be awarded a Level 7 CMI certificate in Management & Leadership showing the CMI units achieved. In addition, the successful candidate will receive a transcript from the International Centre for Parliamentary Studies certifying the specialisation in Strategic Water Planning.

This programme will provide participants with an insight into issues of securing and planning water supply systems. The programme has been designed to provide the necessary in-depth examination of the key planning, organisational and supply issues required for producing and implementing effective plans. Participants will end this course equipped to tackle the ongoing nature of strategic planning and the process of self-examination, the confrontation of difficult choices and the establishment of priorities it encompasses. Through discussions with some of the leading thinkers and professionals involved in water planning, participants will acquire an understanding of key issues including regulation, governance and sustainability, all vital to strategic planning in the water sector.

This week-long course takes place in London, although we are also able to organise the course in your own country if this is your preference. It is internationally recognised and gives you highly sought after transferable CATS points.

The Chartered Management Institute (CMI) is the only chartered professional body in the UK dedicated to promoting the highest standards in management and leadership excellence. The professional qualifications offered by the Institute are internationally recognised and sought after.

What level is it taught at?

It is taught at CMI Level 7, which for comparison purposes equates to Bachelor's Degree level and above.

Who is it for?

- Any individual who wishes to develop their core professional capabilities and competencies in planning for the water sector
- Any individual who is seeking training specifically related to the water sector that offers professional accreditation
- Any individual seeking to improve their skills and confidence in their chosen field of water planning
- Anyone who would like to develop their career and improve their CV with an accredited qualification from the CMI

How will my employer benefit?

- Value for money – investing in training that comes with professional recognition
- Return on investment – demonstrably better quality outcomes through an up-skilled workforce
- More proficient management and leadership within the organisation, with associated benefits of improved service delivery and greater productivity
- Improved morale of employees, leading to reduced staff turnover, greater stability, and less need to spend money on externally recruiting new managers and leaders
- Skills you learn are immediately applicable in the workplace because of our tailor-made approach
- Quality assured – through the CMI's tried and tested best practice management techniques

What is involved?

To obtain the Chartered Management Institute Professional Certificate in Management and Leadership you will complete the week-long training, followed by two written tasks to be completed by you after the duration of the course. Training and guidance are available from our tutors as part of the course to enable those who wish to be awarded the CMI certificate to complete their written work.

For those who wish to benefit from the training but who do not wish to complete the written work for the CMI certificate, the International Centre for Parliamentary Studies is able to offer its own certificates of participation and attendance.

How much does it cost?

Certificate: £2950 & VAT if applicable.

This covers all tuition, materials, assessments, and membership of the CMI from the beginning of the course until you complete your written tasks.
